

Artist Name: Yaminotousan

As an inspiring artist, I begin my process with the right music to set the tone of the piece I envision. This piece was a culuminative set of genre of music, from rock, metal, and punk to hip hop, techno, and country music. This piece is a world I've been building for the past few years. I have a few chapters of story that takes place in Anquil, and I plan on Illustrating my own novel, as well as publish it soon. I typically enjoy creating clean lines when working with ink and I will typically start with a rough sketch of what I am looking for. Once I am starting to feel good about where the image is at I switch to ink and begin to finish the piece. I pull inspiration from some of my favorite fantasy cartographers. (J RR Tolkein, George RR Martin, Rob Alexander, and many more.) As you peer at this world map of the Anquil Archeipelago, ask yourself "Could I Survive this World?"
