

T. Norris-Bey

25-20

Venice Colors

This year I experimented with different styles of painting, sorta loosely painting ideas on canvas then overlaying colors to create form and textures. I tried painting landscapes, water, and different images in different ways than I'm use to and I wasn't sure about the final results but I got positive feedback about the works so I was content to submit these pieces. I hope my experimentation with style and technique inspires others and reaches someone emotionally enough to purchase my works.