What a joy to again be able to participate in another MAP Art Show! This year was more of a logistical struggle as I moved to another side of the prison. That being said, access to water (not in the room) made painting a bit more challenging.

I did some coffee pieces but my focus was on my watercolor. I love the way the water can manipulate the paints to produce so much depth and texture.

I have had some help with my acrylic but watercolor and coffee are completely self-taught. I hope you enjoy the selections presented.

Sincerely,

Jill B. Day
