Sound of Silence

For the last 5 years I've been incarcerated for the accidental death of my girlfriend... We were backing out of a driveway and was hit at 65 MPH by a young man texting and driving... the prosecutor seen I had a prior record from (then 10 years prior) and decided that they could get an easy conviction... How? because my medical marijuana card was expired by 2 days... I had 7 nanograms of THC in my system and was found guilty of OUI-Causing death... the guy texting... didn't receive any charges, I at this very moment have 98 days until I'm paroled... and I still haven't seen the place where Sage Merritt was spread (her ashes) this time hasn't been in vain... I've got a Collage degree, and I'm a 4.0 student, My plan is to apply to the UofM for Art. So when you meet me don't feel bad... I made it home intact and I'm a stronger person now. Thank you for reading... Jimmie.
