

Artist Name: JASON REBUCK

I love Art, always have. Something about bringing a blank canvas to life. As a child, the world was my canvas, be it paper, rocks or walls, my creativity grew like one of Bob's "Happy Little Trees". It was hard to be creative as an adult, but I kept my imagination alive through the intricate Birthday cakes I made for loved ones. Today I express myself through a #2 pencil and a handmade blending pencil. I'm not the best, but not the worst and with each pencil stroke I find inspiration inside myself. My piece is a daring conception on the subject of love, and its close proximity to life and death. Here we see a tender moment shared between two butterflies, unbeknownst to the dangers lurking near by.
