

Artist Name: DUDE NELSON #LULM

I have been illegally incarcerated and silenced in the courts. Through self-preservation I speak through the art I create about my innocence and the injustices that has been inflicted on Me by the people that's suppose to protect me and the constitution. Hoping some-one one-day will be interested in my story. My Art is a freedom of speech, a line of communication that's breaking down barriers that get to the hard to reach places and people.

I do most paintings with black Background to let people know that even though life may have darks times the subject matter of Life is highlighted and always shine through so you can focus on what's important. LULM stand for Locked Up Lives Matter.
