The painting "Quires Contemplations" was one I enjoyed doing alot. It is meant to convey a sense of thoughtful peace and contains a sort of mystery, along with darker elements that are meant to suggest turmoil despite the composure of the image, but despite these elements the image of the woman remains unruined and unbiased. For me this work is inspired by artists who capture in their art character, strength and a willed serenity - something admired by me personally in hard times and harsh environments.
