

Artist Name: Daniel Durbin

This piece took me about 23 hours to complete. I didn't have a pattern to go off of so I had to redo it 4 times before I could get it the way I wanted. I don't know how to stitch the two sides together so I just crocheted them together instead which turned out good I think.

I knew the exhibit was coming up soon so I knew that I wanted to make something for it. This is my second year so I wanted to make something from my heart. This piece represents my heart upon the cross. The cross is where all my hope and faith rests. I had limited materials so I used the little blue that I had and even had to take apart a hat that I crocheted last year to finish the blue side. And then pink was all that I had left. Hopefully next year I will be able to figure out how to do something bigger.

If you pray can you please pray for my mom Susan Durbin who is having serious kidney problems, one is full of stone and the other is too small for her to have it removed, as I understand. Thank you and God Bless you. I also made a snake but only had one color. The cross overcomes the snake.
