

Jason Kenny

334-20

Millenium Falcon

I really didn't know I had a creative bone in my body. I was watching a fellow inmate build an escivator using cardboard and sticks, so I said, "Hell, I'm going to try that too." I bought the materials needed and began building the X-wing fighter from the movie Star Wars. I did pretty good. I sent it home and all my friends and family loved it. So I began making the Millennium Falcon. I was originally building this for my father, however on July 4th 2019 he passed away due to cancer. So now I am putting it in the art show so everyone can see.

I was originally inspired to build this because my family and I actually love Star Wars. I hope you enjoy as well.