

Mal

Kujichaglia (Self-Determination)

What are you here for, to build or destroy?
Does your self deter men from trying to build nations?
Or are you self-determined to build one, a real one?
Give it a name and protect it from them pilgrims?

Not sure 'bout you, but I feel some type of way.
Being as strong as we are with no fight or say,
in this country we're like lunch meat, a bite away
from being devoured, overpowered by what's white today
Not a color, an ideology,
it starts with a thought.

When self can be self taught, well taught, and in turn compel more thinking oneself
can then learn
how to address advancement enhanced in
knowledge of self, polished in health,
and the audacity to aspire for wealth.

What are you here for? To build or destroy?
Determination can turn a Nation upside down. Or build.
Individually, it's on us right now.