

Artist Name: Morgan Rowley
Hello My name is Morgan,

I painted with watercolors, I am a beginner and this was my first time playing with this technique. I had a lot of fun and never planned on participating in the art show. Honestly, I've always felt like I'm not a real artist, but I've learned everyone is creative in their own special way. I'm at a place in my life where I preach about being fearless, trying new things, and stepping outside your comfort zone because that's when the true magic happens. With that said, this is me putting myself out there and practicing what I've been preaching. To explain my painting a little, I wanted to create a frame that looks close to real wood. I painted the feathers at different times and what I noticed was my energy was in different places each time. I feel that's what led me into choosing different colors on all three feathers. They represent three separate auras. It's only a matter of what color resonates with your soul and lives inside of you... how you're feeling in a moment or time. Your aura reflects whatever is going on inside your body. We are all interconnected, sharing each others energy. I like to think when we feel depleted or in need of a friend, we are able to lean on and help each other. The world would be a much more colorful place if everyone did this. Times are so serious and sometimes it's as simple as we just need to have fun.
