

Artist Statement: 27th Annual Exhibition of Artists in Michigan Prisons

Artist Name: Joey W. Taylor what did I intend to do? I felt the need to bring the beauty of the East and West together under a starry night sky, aglowing with angels wings, I believe one may find it a pleasing clash of ~~thems~~ who am I? Artist, Since I was a young lad, It has been my dream to be a famous Artist, Finally I have an opportunity to show the world the fruit of my labors, a taste, a sniff, Why? "we as artists are trappers of beauty, hunters of that perfect imperfect sunrise — Once we capture beauty in clay or stone, or on paper or canvas, — we share it with the world to show what was and will never be again, fleeting beats of the heart, for all to see, preserved," - J.W.T So How did I do it? "My style is completely my own in the way I hold a implement, to the way I complete each detail, after all, details are fallen angels." I am a artist charmed by the beauty of natures might, and it is my purpose to trap it within my sketch, So I have done that, just My hope is my work shall brighten, or inspire like a starry night, many lights upon a dark canvas shining bright like the wings of an Angel in defiance of the dark, Illuminating! — Inspire Imagination! — no voice too small!

Please edit your Artist Statement to fit the space provided.

(Artwork from an Ann Arbor Artist Local)