"I see your Smiral" is a playful representation of the messiness of life, but smiling through it.

My effort is to express that: no matter how messy our lives are, no matter if they are spiraling out of control, no matter if we are big or small, no matter where we fit / are in the spiral; we matter.

We are all connected in this big "smiral" of life, and when we smile through it, we give others permission to do the same!
