PCAP Miniatures 2021 Exhibit

Artist Name: Ambler #A188312

This year's challenge to put something together for a miniatures exhibition, made me take pause on my ability to work with a much smaller size than I am used to. But I think that this was a very good challenge for an artist to work on a smaller scale. I enjoyed trying to put as much detail as possible into such a small scale without overworking each piece to not appear to be cluttered. I learned to make do with less space and less fine detail. I enjoy creating these old sailing ships and this was an opportunity to create a variety of different ships on such a small scale. I have some good ideas now on doing some of these styles on a much larger scale that I normally work with and can do some interesting things to bring the ships to life with details.
