Road To Nowhere?, The Duality of Man

Road To Nowhere? - I would like to leave this up to interpretation. Hence the question mark. There are some themes I would like to point out. The road has no set horizon. It levitates as a cloud might. I chose a cool style I call stamping because the man with the cane and soldier are not filled in. ^(among other things) It is from my love of poster art, as well as 70's book covers I've seen. (This was only a minor thought. I used no reference points). The left shows a type of machinery that has many parts the closer you look. It has a yellow ball in its "mouth". It produces a rainbow out its eye. Above all it has a contradiction present. Fun/dark. Dreamlike/reality.

Duality of Man - represents in a fun, hip way all things we have been no matter how contradictory they may be. I chose feelings, labels, and stylized nicknames. I wish I could see this on the side of a building.
