

Artist Name: Terrell L. Marcie

I always, for some reason, use to try to draw myself before coming to prison. So I ended up drawing what I thought I looked like when I came to prison. The guy in the next cell happen to be a very good artist, he saw my drawing and laughed. From there he started giving me pointers. I then took 3 art courses in college. I tried different media's and became addicted to my art. One day I was placed in segregation and all of my work was taken by staff. At that time I didn't know my art was appreciated. To this day people see <sup>greatness</sup> ~~importance~~ in my work that I don't see but yet it inspires me to keep going. My "Deparation" <sup>is a cry for help from the madness,</sup> ~~My "Deparation" is a cry for help from the madness.~~ ~~My "Deparation" is a cry for help from the madness.~~ "Oh my God" expresses a man's dream for his perfect woman. "Fighting Evil" is just what a prisoner endures while being surrounded by hostility and deception. "No laughing matter" is often seen when a prisoner is defeated by a heckler. "Blue Jay" is a beautiful look at one of Gods creations. "~~King and Queen of Egypt~~" were husband and wife. "~~The names are Archenator and~~ ~~Nefertiti~~" were husband and wife. "Nelson Mandela" was a great leader. "A Black political leader" in "~~A Black political leader~~". "No more prison" is about being imprisoned. Wild Life Habitat is their freedom to exist.
