A Small Village, Mountain Cabin

I love this time of year when the tree's start to dress up with all the fall color's and again we can get ready for the Art Show. It is the ~~time~~ <sup>TIME</sup> when the artist here in LCF get together and talk about the art we are going to turn in this year. It is a good time when artist help each other figure out which subject they plane to paint this year. I have been in this show for the last twenty years and I thank God for this outlet. It helps to give you back your dignity and selfworth. It also makes you feel more human. Like you still belong to society. I hope you enjoy the paintings I did this year. Like always, I paint where I want to be.
