original prose for P.C.A.P. ART ~~PLEASE DO NOT~~ ~~REMOVE~~

Light dying on the chalk stained wall of forever, spills darker tones into the created thing.

A spectre runs through like time or the memory of time,
Its face is a clock ticking down into nothing.

I lift my brush to an impossible canvas.
Life becomes a contrasted circle in the madness
of black.

Should the morning reflection ever break in the mirror, with pieces of me falling away like dreams.

I'd like to leave something behind to say I'm sorry.
