

Artist Statement: 27th Annual Exhibition of Artists in Michigan Prisons

Artist Name: _____

J Bushey

The picture is called Currency because everybody in prison loses their identity and become part of a system that only care about the money not the person. I chose the color of the hands to represent the different people in prison not the races. the color scheme yellow and grey. yellow represent the sun light which is a nother figure of freedom. The grey represent the law and the rules that take away our hope. notice the hands at the bottom are different from the rest the reason being no matter how privaliged you are you can still become part of the system, Currency.
