Sand Rail

A hobby of mine is getting old motorcycles & old Volkswagen's out of salvage yards & get them running again. I do my own mechanic work, upholstery, & paint. I take pride in taking something thought of as junk & get them going again. Since I'm in prison & I can't work on the real thing, I build models like this sandrail from memory using cracker boxes, potato chip bags, paper, string, paint & glue.

It takes almost 200 hrs to build a model like this & I feel that they're never done, I could always add something else.

This keeps my mind off being in prison, away from the people I love, & reminds me of happier times in my life.
