Life's Unpredictable

I don't have an artistic background, I just found I enjoy painting while incarcerated - ① It helps to pass time - ② The joy I see on people's faces as they see my finished work! Darkness and Crazy Colors was an unexpected experiment that turned out great. The wolf howling at the Moon/Roulette wheel was done in loving memory of my father, who's nickname his whole life was "Wolf", and at times enjoyed playing roulette when visiting the casinos. My father passed away in 2015 due to terminal Brain Cancer, which hit us 5 boys pretty hard, but even took a harder hit on him. He was always in good spirits through the end. And even being sick from cancer he was always ~~smiling~~ smiling when he was over top of that Roulette wheel.
