We're all on this spiritual journey called life, and we go through it together and alone. I've spent most of my life in prison, and despite where I am on the outside, I am doing the best I ever have on the inside. My journey has taught me that the more we see ourselves as going through this alone, the more what we see reinforces this... but the more we see ourselves as going through this together, the more what we see reinforces this.

My pieces are about the beauty of seeing the endurance it takes to hold up the sky, or oneself when going through hardships — whatever kind we may face. We all have it within us to overcome, and God gives us help when we ask and when we see with new sight.
