

Artist Statement: 27th Annual Exhibition of Artists in Michigan Prisons

Artist Name: Peter Versluis

the last couple of years I have been using a style of art just using one single line. I have found out that people love this style to. This style makes you think outside of the box. This style is not what you call "normal". One person might see the picture, but another would see the bigger picture. Some pictures may look like I'm using multiple lines, but I'm only using one single line. This style makes it challenging to come up with different objects or things, like a face, heart or a butterfly, which I have done in the past. This makes it different. I love doing portraits which I'm really good at. And I do a lot of them for other prisoners here at the facility. I use to go to Art Prize when I lived in Grand Rapids and I love to see the different styles of art. It always surprised me what you can use to make a picture.
