

Red Murine

314-20

The Face Between

I became interested in Art after becoming incarcerated. While watching "The Game of Thrones" I started to like dragons. The face between the dragons was added to add depth to the drawing. I like using bright colors and I'm learning to make shadows without using black. In the red dragon there is no black only greens for the dark spots and shadows. I have just started drawing and using color pencils and pastels. I hope this piece puts a smile on your face and that you enjoy it as much as I do.