PCAP Miniatures 2021 Exhibit

Artist Name: B. Brown Jr.

I have been doodling all my life. During my incarceration, I've really learned so much. Art is the thing I do to ease my time. It's therapeutic! I have been pushing myself to get better. For example, "The Rosy Dreamcatcher" is inspired by a design a bunkie of mine thought up. I was able to take his instructions and create this... I wanna say masterpiece, ha. Putting someone's ideals on paper was something I'd never done before. Then there's "Tree by the Sea" I love how this one turned out. I forged ahead and figured out how to draw trees finally. And the PCAP Miniature Exhibit pushed me to shrink it down, while maintaining detail!!! The Ferocious Lion in "Life Behind Bars?" he symbolizes how a lot of people think of inmates. In reality though, most inmates just wanna go home and are not dangerous animals. "Worth A Lick or Two," Little Bentley passed recently, this was done in his honor. And, last but not least, "Flowers by the Sea" is like a up close photo of a few pretty flowers, "Tree by the Sea" is photo-like as well.
