

Artist Name: Fred

Hello to everyone once again, thank you to the PCAP family and friends.

My personal growth as a Artist has shifted the way I view everything around me. I see beauty and color in every living and non-living thing around me. I want people to see me in my art, My happiness, my sadness, my love as well as my shortcomings. Each time my thoughts are captured on canvas, they become my voice to the world around me that I am here. I discovered through art so many amazing things about the man I am now living in my skin understanding my true voice. For every one who supported me along the journey im thankful, For PCAP and the effort taken each year to allow so many of us trapped within white walls to burst and emerge from our shells to showcase beauty from within our inner souls. Thank you all, Peace & blessings.
