Art for me is a release from the world and the stress in it. Working on a project takes all of my focus bringing me into the fantasy world that I'm drawing.

I like to create my work in layers, adding layers lets me see the work coming together slowly taking the time to enjoy what I'm doing. I love to draw beautiful women in romantic poses, but I have recently started to experiment with fantasy and colored pencil. Listening to music while I'm planning, choosing colors, and drawing calms me down and takes away any anxiety I might have. Graphite is my favorite to use, blending is easy and looks beautiful. Colored pencil is a bit harder and more challenging but great work takes time.

All in all I love entering the world that I'm drawing and look forward to doing the next piece.
