

Artist Statement: 26th Annual Exhibition of Art by Michigan Prisoners

Artist Name:

Jill B. Day

Each year I have participated in the PCAP Art Show I have tried to use new mediums, techniques and ideas. This year I harkened back to one of my favorite pieces of art by McCarty. He used a technique of layering tissue on his canvas and then painted over those layers of tissue. This is what I have tried this year. I actually love the way the paint bleeds the edges of the tissue. My usual art is very realistic and linear. I have begun to see throughout this pandemic that things are not always concrete and some blurred lines add beauty and softness. I want to again thank KIMIKO for her belief in me and helping me escape the basic art and move toward finding new ways to express myself.
