~~I name this piece moments that make us cry because it actually~~

I name this piece moments that make us cry because when I first got this picture of my daughter I haven't seen her is so long and she looked so beautiful and peaceful full of life and joy but deep down I still know that there is something missing and that something is me! And even though she looks like she don't have a care in the world, no worries what so ever, I know better. She miss me she needs me. and I miss her had need her just as much so getting pictures like this of my children are always bitter sweet and the moment I seen it it made me shed A few tears its my favorite picture so I had to draw it and put my little spin on it
