

Artist Name: Isaac "Bear" Fetzey

Seeing the image in its entirety, or letting it develop organically. Knowing its name before the first mark is made, or letting it come with the work. Meanings and subject matter from shallow to deep. Inspiration from anywhere and everywhere. At the end of the day, I just love the processes behind creating these images, and everything that comes with them. I especially appreciate how it reminds me that I'm still human, despite what my environment and circumstances constantly scream in my ears. That's why I steer away from any overtly prison-themed works. I'm not a "prison artist", or even an "artist in prison". I'm just me, a guy who draws to feel free, but happens to be stuck behind way too many fences. I'm just trying to strike the same chords in your heart and mind that were struck in mine as I made these ~~own~~ pieces. Be well, and enjoy.
