

Artist Name: Daniel Teribery

Art helped me find myself in so many ways. It was an outlet to express how I was feeling inside. Dealing with a mental illness all my life I had no way to release how I was feeling inside until I started creating art. I feel like me and art were made for each other, "Because it has changed me in a way I can never describe to anyone. It's just, we now are able to feel free from this place we call Hell. My love and passion for art helps me express love and compassion to others. It's gave me a new life, a new beginning and I hope this relationship lasts forever 😊"
