I define my drawings to be Beautiful. When I finish a piece that's what I see, something Beautiful. As a beginner I did no shade. Another artist gave me a drawing of his own. I noticed the shading after I did the picture myself. As I went on, I dwelled on shading. A level 2 prisoner helped me own a Rose in an art class. Had given me a rose to shade. I gave up on that rose. A correspondent 'Prisoner Express' mail me an Artist shading lesson I've been shading every since. A friend of mines, who I write mention my shading. Sending her my drawings I noticed how manificently Beautiful my drawing are with shading. I draw these shadings for you to encounter, I hope you enjoy them.

Sculpting teaches me patience.
I have to set it down for another day. The more I get in to it, the more wild my strokes get. When I put it down, every time I pick it up, my craft become more + more of what it's suppose to be. To be relaxed + patient.
