Save Me

I'm not what anyone would consider a "cat person" — my family has always owned dogs — but there's something about the eyes of big cats that have always enraptured me. I've also always enjoyed drawing "unusual" animals — rare or endangered species, "ugly" animals like spiders and snakes, even now-extinct species. We need to do everything we can as a united human race to prevent any more endangered species, like the tiger, from going extinct.
