In Autumn, she Goes

My heart sunders
in the autumn
when her leaves morph,

Gone are her many shades
of green,

Starved of love
and nutrients
she fades: Molten red.

She fades: Achey orange.

She falls: Tender brown

Goddess's breath blows
her south
for the long sleep.

But never
fear,

She.

My Love,

My Beauty,

My Goddess on earth,

shall return.

In Spring.
