

Artist Name:

Alvin

"Privatio Boni," is a Latin term that means, (Privation of the good). Personally, this represents what takes place when we as a Democracy set aside our morals and principles, opting instead to engage in popularity contests. It was important to create this piece because I'm a firm believer that when people tell you who they are, you should probably believe them! And that applies no matter which side of the political fence you occupy.

A stylized signature of the name "Alvin" in cursive script, with a long, sweeping underline that extends across the page.