Art brings joy & light to my life and I'm thankful I get to enjoy working with different materials like colored pencils, paint, & pastels. I'm not trying to be perfect with my art, but creative. I want to bring out thoughts & ideas to a viewers mind & hopefully a smile to your face.

I'm not great at what I do, but I'm a work in progress. Each year I try new ideas & new techniques & it's very exciting & fun. I really appreciate P.C.A.P because they give me drive to keep going each year, and I always look forward to the next exhibition.

This year I wanted my art to say something about the world today. I want to express pains, struggles & joy of life. I think I will continue with these ideas more next year also.

Part of why I choose to make art is that, I would like while I'm sitting here in a cell in prison, I want to be seen. While I sit in this colorless institution, I want to show the color that is in me. I hope you enjoy my work & tell me your likes & dislikes, I would love to hear your thoughts. Thank you
