

Artist Name: Larry McWalters #475200

I started off making jewelry boxes for girls early in my time. Wanted to make something for men. By my background being out in nature hunting, fishing, camping, thought about making a cabin bank. Then seen this picture in a T.V. guide of a clock that was western style came to mind for me to make one. Always like building homes working with my hands as I grew up.

This is how I can give back and enjoy my time while being locked up. I was shown how to roll paper into logs and put them together and create this cabin structure. Hope that people will enjoy my art work as well.

Thank you for your time
