I met her over nine years ago, and she's been my best friend ever since. I don't have the space to explain all she has done for me in here and how she has gotten me through the most immeasurable loss a man can go through without even asking for anything for herself in return. She's been my rock through this nightmare I'm living in and she has never wavered. There isn't any way I could properly thank her for all she has been to me and done for me. But what I can do is this. Even if it's just for a day, I can have her portrait hanging up for the world to see her just as I do. She's the burst of color in your life no matter how dark it seems, even if she doesn't always see herself that way. And as beautiful as she is, (and boy is she a knockout) it doesn't compare to the beauty in her heart. Thank you, Carebear. You've given me hope for whatever future lays ahead of me, and you've never let me give up hope in my appeal. You deserve the world and I truly deeply do hope that you get it someday!
