IF you can survive then "You must survive!"

Never give up on these people who offer you a hope!

You have to keep living for a chance, and a life that's not this life, not this place, not this moment.

Produce a result for those who come in the grey hours before dark. The ones who come and offer you a way forward when no one else does. People like family or people like the P.C.A.P. ^{STAFF} ~~STAFF~~

My life is forfeit to those like P.C.A.P. who make a path for us and I certainly hope everyone involved understands we appreciate your tryings.

I will always do my best to be worth your support!

The works can't be fully explained in short lines but,

Blue eyed child of doubt and Many Moons of Mary are a personal tribute to my niece and my sister who come through uncertain trials in life and still keep their power and determination intact. Skulls are a representation of doubt, Moons represent the countless nights of struggle. Each piece holds a color or object that represent the victory over those struggles.
