By His Grace

This piece represents the position I'm in mentally, emotionally, and likely physically, after hitting a wall mentally and emotionally about 18 months ago. Found myself ready to give up, didn't even feel I deserved to get out of prison, and was broken.

I prayed, actually suggested God leave me in prison, and started to repent. Suddenly peace came over me like I'd never felt before.

Within days a number of miracles started happening, Big Ones, and they continue today, all of which may be causing my release. Either way, I've still found emotional and mental freedom like I've never known.

I originally printed this on a shirt, and put a poem I wrote on the front. I'm including the poem with this.

Thank you for the chance to share/tell my story!
