Art for me was an escape from negative things in my life. Through art I am able to reach a place mentally where it's just me in my own space - creating. I am no longer worried about what may have occurred beforehand, worried about tomorrow, or if my day is good or bad. When I draw, the moment is mine and mine alone and I love the end result each time. I love to create art because of joy it brings not only to myself, but to other people. I continue to always find new and exciting ways to improve my skills as an artist. Though at times it may be challenging, what comes from it more times than not brings a smile to my face.
