FREEDOM

My love for being creative grows each and every time I sit down to paint. My love for life has grown as I have gained humility, wisdom & love for all of God's creations over my 50 yrs of life thus far. Nature, particularly trees, have been a reminder of how simple, yet how amazing this place earth is. Trees also remind me of people - like myself - I started out, small, frail and uncertain. However with love, food & water, sunshine, good soil (Jesus, family & friends) I was able to grow and withstand many storms. I am now stronger and my roots deep, yet I must continue to remain close to Jesus, and watering my roots so I forever evolve. One day I will fly like an eagle, until then, I will use my creative talent to express my inner beauty and share it with all of you! :
