

Artist Name: Daniel Turrentine

Art is one of my oldest friends. Whom I share a very meaningful relationship with. This relationship has matured into a deeply personal journey of self exploration and the images born from this introspection are excerpts from the inner sanctum of my heart. This desire to express myself with full transparency stems from my youth. The first time that I truly felt that I wasn't alone in the world was at an art museum. Artists long since past helped me to feel a real sense of connectivity. My hope's to do the same for someone else.
