A CORRECTIONS OFFICER WORSE NIGHTMARE

some are scared of cats and dog's some are scared of mice and frogs some are scared of fights and brawls some are scared of heights and falls I wonder whats the worse out of them all?

is it the fear of tall trees?
or the fear of bumblebees?
is it the fear of tumbleweeds or the rumble that thunder brings what about the fear of strong winds or being surrounded by long fins ? most CO's fear -- is how this poem ends

Its not the fear hawks and eagle's not fear of the dark not of rollercoasters nor of planes or elevators not witches or bats not lions and bear's its not the fear of clowns its not the fear of facing death as they do a round but a correction officer worse fear is to see their child in here
