Faith in Weaving

I go by joker. Not like DC comics joker, or Jared Leto's version, more like "joker" from Stanley Kubrick "Full Metal Jacket". I have felt like him for most of my life, useless, overlooked, and abandoned, a dear friend of mine that served in the Marine Corps along side me was truly a saving grace for me in my time of need. We both have a similar knot on our right wrists that represent a never ending friendship, no matter what were going through and no matter where in the world we are all we have to do is look at our wrist and know someone, somewhere cares for me. The knot itself is a never ending weaving pattern and represents a never ending bond.
