My art reflects my experiences in life that I have had to come to peace with. A lot of emotions went into two of my pieces. (Turmoil + A love lost) I hope I have captured love, sadness, anger, and a sense of the continual searching for a love that was lost. My husband passed away on September 5th of this year after 19 yrs of marriage, & then my aunt (whom helped to raise me) passed away soon after. I incorporated 19 black butterflies because right after I found out about my husband, black butterflies were flying all around me as I sat on our small yard crying. I had never seen black butterflies until that day. My other piece, turmoil, was created after I found out about my Aunt and still in the process of mourning my husband. All emotions; anger, sadness, desperation, uncertainty, and turmoil are behind this piece. Thank-you for allowing me to express what we all as human beings feel at given points in our lives! Candy
