

Artist Statement — 30th Annual Exhibition of Artists in Michigan Prisons

Artist Name: Jennifer Mohler

In all honesty I don't put an awful lot of thought into what I draw. Everything I draw, I have to reference something. I am a perfectionist so a lot of the time I want my art to look as much like the original as possible. Everything I draw is freehand. The portraits are the only 2 I've ever done. I don't draw if I'm not in the mood to do so, otherwise the picture looks weird. I didn't know that I had any type of artistic skill/talent until a couple years ago. Most of the things I draw end up being black and white because I don't enjoy coloring. It's never been my favorite thing to do. Recently I realized that whenever I draw something, it always begins at a place of pain
