For me, the "art" I create is not so great.

It's okay, & will bring a smile to the face of a child; whether a child at heart or literal age.

But the support & praise raised by PCAP staff is beyond great.

PCAP love is a spark to initiate art that can start the fight to placate hate.

I have emptied my heart of that destructive trait; often I initiate my process to create with a dream to envision fascination within the mind's eye of a child.

Wouldn't it be wild if leaders lived life with a desire to see even enemies smile instead of walking through the slench of current life as if surrounded by the "Lord of the flies"? Can't we just utilize materials given in life, practice right, to get things right & beautify our vision so others can see the gift of life through art-filled eyes? This is the gift to others like me which PCAP provides.
Thanks guys! 😊
