I have been drawing since before I can even remember. My grandmother has always told me that I was blessed with this gift, but to me it's more like a form of escape and always has been. When I draw I'm able to time everything out around me and create my own world on paper. Being creative with a pencil is my dream of choice that I just can't seem to shake. No matter where I am in life, the pieces that I am exhibiting truly come from my own imagination and self images.
