I've always felt a kinship with the outdoors along with a soulful endeavor to communicate the depth, complexities, and mystery inherent in the unadulterated landscape. From the nondescript forest line of my backyard to the monumental expanse of the Smokey Mountains. Whether participating in the Pcap events or simply stepping out onto my porch, I try to observe and absorb the unique magic that each new morning has to offer. I love to just watch and observe. The early morning sunrises, it's like a meditation. It teaches me something new every time. I love the complexities of simple scenes, and they are everywhere. I have always been drawn to the aesthetic charm and drama surrounding moonlit scenes and reflections in water. Love how light situations, it's a primary concern when deciding whether or not to paint it. The first and last light of the day is the best, so I try never to miss it. Thank you for this Pcap event. We all look forward to, and prepare for it all year.
